Subject: Expiration of Dec 2007 Quarterly Options

The next expiration period for ISE Quarterly Options (options series that expire on the last trading day of the calendar quarter) will fall on Monday, December 31. This represents the first time that quarterly options will expire on a weekday other than Friday.

Please note that no changes will be made to regular expiration processing, despite the fact that these series will expire at the close of business on Monday, December 31. All deadlines, including the 5:30 p.m. EST deadline to submit exercise instructions, will be unchanged.

Please call me with any questions.
