Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 320B.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the real-time peak settlement point prices ("SPPs") for the contract month for the West 345 KV Hub as published by ERCOT where the peak hours are the hours ending 7:00 through 22:00 CPT for each Monday through Friday excluding NERC holidays.[1] All ERCOT real-time peak SPPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that ERCOT adjusts any SPPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 321B.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the real-time off-peak settlement point prices ("SPPs") for the contract month for the North 345 KV Hub as published by ERCOT where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-06:00 and 23:00-24:00 CPT Monday through Friday and 01:00-24:00 CPT Saturday-Sunday and NERC holidays.[1] All ERCOT real-time off-peak SPPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that ERCOT adjusts any SPPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 321G.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the applicable strip length referenced by the market for hours ending 01:00-06:00 and 23:00-24:00 on all seven days in the central (CPT) prevailing time zone of the Real-Time hourly Off-Peak SPPs for the North Hub as published by ERCOT.[1] All ERCOT REAL-TIME hourly Off-Peak SPPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that ERCOT adjusts any SPPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 322C.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the applicable strip length referenced by the market for hours ending 07:00-22:00 on Saturday, Sunday and NERC holidays in the central (CPT) prevailing time zone of the Real- Time hourly Off-Peak SPPs for the Houston Hub as published by ERCOT.[1] All ERCOT REAL-TIME hourly Off-Peak SPPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that ERCOT adjusts any SPPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 322H.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the applicable strip length referenced by the market for hours ending 01:00-06:00 and 23:00-24:00 on all seven days in the central (CPT) prevailing time zone of the Real-Time hourly Off-Peak SPPs for the Houston Hub as published by ERCOT.[1] All ERCOT REAL-TIME hourly Off-Peak SPPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that ERCOT adjusts any SPPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 323A.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the real-time off-peak settlement point prices ("SPPs") for the contract month for the South 345 KV Hub as published by ERCOT where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-06:00 and 23:00-24:00 CPT Monday through Friday and 01:00-24:00 CPT Saturday-Sunday and NERC holidays.[1] All ERCOT real-time off-peak SPPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that ERCOT adjusts any SPPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Adopted Apr. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-30); amended Apr. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-31).

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 323D.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the applicable strip length referenced by the market for hours ending 07:00-22:00 on Saturday, Sunday and NERC holidays in the central (CPT) prevailing time zone of the Real- Time hourly Off-Peak SPPs for the South Hub as published by ERCOT.[1] All ERCOT REALTIME hourly Off-Peak SPPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that ERCOT adjusts any SPPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 324.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the real-time off-peak settlement point prices ("SPPs") for the contract month for the West 345 KV Hub as published by ERCOT where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-06:00 and 23:00-24:00 CPT Monday through Friday and 01:00-24:00 CPT Saturday-Sunday and NERC holidays.[1] All ERCOT real-time off-peak SPPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that ERCOT adjusts any SPPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Adopted Apr. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-30); amended Apr. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-31).

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 324B.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the real-time off-peak settlement point prices ("SPPs") for the contract month for the West 345 KV Hub as published by ERCOT where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-06:00 and 23:00-24:00 CPT Monday through Friday and 01:00-24:00 CPT Saturday-Sunday and NERC holidays.[1] All ERCOT real-time off-peak SPPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that ERCOT adjusts any SPPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Adopted Apr. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-30); amended Apr. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-31).

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 324E.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the applicable strip length referenced by the market for hours ending 07:00-22:00 on Saturday, Sunday and NERC holidays in the central (CPT) prevailing time zone of the Real- Time hourly Off-Peak SPPs for the West Hub as published by ERCOT.[1] All ERCOT REALTIME hourly Off-Peak SPPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that ERCOT adjusts any SPPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 325A.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the AEP Dayton Hub where the peak hours are the hours ending 8:00-23:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays.[1] All PJM day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 326.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the AEP Dayton Hub as published by PJM where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 1:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays, and the hours ending 01:00 – 24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday and NERC holiday.[1] All PJM day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

Adopted June 8, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-55); amended June 8, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-56).

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 326C.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the Day-Ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the AEP Dayton Hub as published by PJM where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays; and the hours ending 01:00-24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday, and NERC holiday.[1] All PJM Day-Ahead hourly Peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 328.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the Northern Illinois Hub as published by PJM where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 1:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays, and the hours ending 01:00 – 24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday and NERC holiday.[1] All PJM day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Adopted June 8, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-55); amended June 8, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-56).

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 328B.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the Northern Illinois Hub as published by PJM where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 1:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays, and the hours ending 01:00 – 24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday and NERC holiday.[1] All PJM day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Adopted June 8, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-55); amended June 8, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-56).

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 329.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the Indiana Hub as published by MISO where the peak hours are the hours ending 8:00 – 23:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays.[19] All MISO day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that MISO adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Adopted June 8, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-55); amended June 8, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-56).

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 329B.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the Indiana Hub as published by MISO where the peak hours are the hours ending 8:00 – 23:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays.[1] All MISO day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that MISO adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 330B.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the Indiana Hub as published by MISO where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 1:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays, and the hours ending 01:00 – 24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday and NERC holiday.[1] All MISO day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that MISO adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 330D.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Price

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement prices will be determined by NFX using price data from a number of sources including, spot, forward and derivative markets for both physical and financial products.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the Indiana Hub as published by MISO where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 1:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays, and the hours ending 01:00 - 24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday and NERC holiday.[1] All MISO day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that MISO adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or the other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 332A.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for Zone A as published by NYISO where the Off-Peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT Monday through Friday and 01:00-24:00 CPT Saturday-Sunday and NERC holidays.[1] All NYISO hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that NYISO adjusts any LBMPs at a later time for any reason.

Adopted Dec. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-103); amended Dec. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-104).

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 333A.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly Peak LBMPs for Zone C as published by NYISO where the Peak hours are the hours ending 8:00 through 23:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday excluding NERC holidays.[1] All NYISO hourly Peak LBMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that NYISO adjusts any LBMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Adopted Dec. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-103); amended Dec. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-104).

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 334C.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for Zone C as published by NYISO where the Off-Peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT Monday through Friday and 01:00-24:00 CPT Saturday-Sunday and NERC holidays.[1] All NYISO hourly Peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 335.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly Peak LBMPs for Zone D as published by NYISO where the Peak hours are the hours ending 8:00 through 23:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday excluding NERC holidays.[1] All NYISO hourly Peak LBMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that NYISO adjusts any LBMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Adopted Dec. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-103); amended Dec. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-104).

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 336.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for Zone D as published by NYISO where the Off-Peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT Monday through Friday and 01:00-24:00 CPT Saturday-Sunday and NERC holidays.[1] All NYISO hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that NYISO adjusts any LBMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 337.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly Peak LBMPs for Zone F as published by NYISO where the Peak hours are the hours ending 8:00 through 23:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday excluding NERC holidays.[1] All NYISO hourly Peak LBMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that NYISO adjusts any LBMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Adopted Dec. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-103); amended Dec. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-104).

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 338B.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for Zone F as published by NYISO where the Off-Peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT Monday through Friday and 01:00-24:00 CPT Saturday-Sunday and NERC holidays.[1] All NYISO hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that NYISO adjusts any LBMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 338D.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Price

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement prices will be determined by NFX using price data from a number of sources including, spot, forward and derivative markets for both physical and financial products.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for Zone F as published by NYISO where the Off-Peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT Monday through Friday and 01:00-24:00 CPT Saturday-Sunday and NERC holidays.[1] All NYISO hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that NYISO adjusts any LBMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or the other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 340A.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for Zone G as published by NYISO where the Off-Peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT Monday through Friday and 01:00-24:00 CPT Saturday-Sunday and NERC holidays.[1] All NYISO hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that NYISO adjusts any LBMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Adopted Dec. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-103); amended Dec. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-104).

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 341A.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly Peak LBMPs for Zone J as published by NYISO where the Peak hours are the hours ending 8:00 through 23:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday excluding NERC holidays.[1] All NYISO hourly Peak LBMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that NYISO adjusts any LBMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 342.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for Zone J as published by NYISO where the Off-Peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT Monday through Friday and 01:00-24:00 CPT Saturday-Sunday and NERC holidays.[1] All NYISO hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that NYISO adjusts any LBMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Adopted Dec. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-103); amended Dec. 6, 2016 (SR-NFX-2016-104).

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 342C.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly Off-Peak LBMPs for Zone J as published by NYISO where the Off-Peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT Monday through Friday and 01:00-24:00 CPT Saturday-Sunday and NERC holidays.[1] All NYISO hourly Peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 344.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the ATSI Zone as published by PJM where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays; and the hours ending 01:00-24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday, and NERC holiday. All PJM day-ahead hourly Peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 345.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the PSEG Zone as published by PJM where the peak hours are the hours ending 08:00-23:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays. All PJM day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 345B.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the PSEG Zone as published by PJM where the peak hours are the hours ending 08:00-23:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays. All PJM day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 346B.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the PSEG Zone as published by PJM where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays; and the hours ending 01:00-24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday, and NERC holiday. All PJM zonal day-ahead hourly Peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement prices will be determined by NFX using price data from a number of sources including, spot, forward and derivative markets for both physical and financial products.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the PSEG Zone as published by PJM where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays; and the hours ending 01:00-24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday, and NERC holiday. All PJM zonal day-ahead hourly Peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or the other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 347B.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the JCPL Zone as published by PJM where the peak hours are the hours ending 08:00-23:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays. All PJM day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 348D.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Price

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement prices will be determined by NFX using price data from a number of sources including, spot, forward and derivative markets for both physical and financial products.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the JCPL Zone as published by PJM where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays; and the hours ending 01:00-24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday, and NERC holiday. All PJM zonal day-ahead hourly Peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or the other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 350A.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the PEPCO Zone as published by PJM where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays; and the hours ending 01:00-24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday, and NERC holiday. All PJM zonal day-ahead hourly Peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 350D.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Price

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement prices will be determined by NFX using price data from a number of sources including, spot, forward and derivative markets for both physical and financial products.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the PEPCO Zone as published by PJM where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays; and the hours ending 01:00-24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday, and NERC holiday. All PJM zonal day-ahead hourly Peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or the other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 351A.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the PECO Zone as published by PJM where the peak hours are the hours ending 08:00-23:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays. All PJM day-ahead hourly peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 352C.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the arithmetic average of the day-ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the PECO Zone as published by PJM where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday, excluding NERC holidays; and the hours ending 01:00-24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday, and NERC holiday.[1] All PJM Day-Ahead hourly Peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that PJM adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Nasdaq PHLX Rules, Regulation, 354.06, Final and Daily Settlement and Settlement Prices

Click to open document in a browser

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the Minnesota Hub as published by MISO where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday excluding NERC holidays, and hours ending 01:00-24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday and NERC holiday.[1] All MISO day-ahead hourly Peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that MISO adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

(a) Final settlement for contracts held to their maturity date is by cash settlement in U.S. dollars.

(b) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the daily settlement price shall be set by exchange staff by 5:45 PM EPT or as soon as practicable thereafter based on third-party broker quotes and transactions as well as transactions executed on the Exchange.

(c) Pursuant to Chapter V, Section III, the final settlement price will be equal to the mathematical average of the Day-Ahead hourly off-peak LMPs for the Minnesota Hub as published by MISO where the off-peak hours are the hours ending 01:00-07:00 and 24:00 EPT for each Monday through Friday excluding NERC holidays, and hours ending 01:00-24:00 EPT for each Saturday, Sunday and NERC holiday.[1] All MISO day-ahead hourly Peak LMPs for the contract month will be considered final at 5:00 PM EPT on the fifth business day following the last trading day, and the final settlement price will not be adjusted in the event that MISO adjusts any LMPs at a later time for any reason.

(d) If the daily settlement price described in (b) above is unavailable the Exchange may in its sole discretion establish a daily settlement price that it deems to be a fair and reasonable reflection of the market. If the final settlement price is not available or the normal settlement procedure cannot be utilized due to a trading disruption or other unusual circumstance, the final settlement price will be determined in accordance with the Rules and By-Laws of the Clearing Corporation.

Adopted June 30, 2017 (SR-NFX-2017-21).
