RE: Bell-Ringing Ceremony- August 29, 2007

MEMBERS OF THE CIVIL WAR AND UNDERGROUND RAILROAD MUSEUM TO RING OPENING BELL ON WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 29

The Philadelphia Stock Exchange will celebrate the announcement of the upcoming move of the nation's oldest Civil War and Underground Railroad Museum to a new location with a special bell ringing ceremony on Wednesday, August 29.

Remarks will begin promptly at 9:15 a.m.

E. Harris Baum, Esq., chairman of the Board of Governors of the Civil War and Underground Railroad Museum of Philadelphia, will ring the opening bell. Millicent Sparks, the associate director of education and programs, will be in costume as Harriet Tubman, and Herbert Kaufman will be dressed as an authentic style Union Medical Officer.

The Civil War and Underground Railroad Museum was founded in 1888 by veteran Union Army, Navy and Marine Corps officers, to preserve the history of that conflict and to promote public education through the collection, preservation and display of artifacts, written material and photographic documents. The museum plans to move into the historic First Bank of the United States building at 120 S. 3rd Street.
